EACC
Ways The Corrupt Defeat Justice

1. Bribery: Corrupt individuals may offer bribes to law enforcement officials, judges, or other authorities to influence legal proceedings or avoid punishment.

2. Extortion: Corrupt individuals may use threats or coercion to force law enforcement officials or witnesses to act in their favor or remain silent.

3. Manipulation of evidence: They may tamper with or destroy evidence to weaken the case against them or to falsely incriminate others.

4. Witness intimidation: Corrupt individuals may intimidate or threaten witnesses to prevent them from testifying or providing incriminating information.

5. False testimony: They may provide false testimony or coerce others into providing false testimony to mislead the court or law enforcement agencies.

6. Political influence: Corrupt individuals may use their political connections or power to influence legal proceedings or to shield themselves from prosecution.

7. Legal loopholes: They may exploit legal loopholes or technicalities to delay or avoid prosecution altogether.
8. Money laundering: Corrupt individuals may use sophisticated financial schemes to hide the proceeds of their illegal activities, making it difficult for authorities to trace and recover assets.

9. Obstruction of justice: They may obstruct investigations or tamper with the judicial process to impede the prosecution of their crimes.

10. Media manipulation: Corrupt individuals may use their influence or financial resources to manipulate public opinion or control media coverage of their cases.

11. Corrupt alliances: They may form alliances with other corrupt individuals or criminal organizations to strengthen their power and evade justice collectively.

12. Infiltration of legal institutions: Corrupt individuals may infiltrate legal institutions or law enforcement agencies to influence decisions from within.

13. Judicial corruption: They may corrupt judges or judicial officials to secure favorable rulings or to ensure lenient sentences.

14. Selective enforcement: Corrupt individuals may use their influence to ensure that laws are selectively enforced, targeting their rivals or critics while protecting themselves.

15. Impunity: In some cases, corrupt individuals may operate with a sense of impunity, believing that they are above the law due to their wealth, power, or connections.
